HOW TO PLAY

Asia Poker is based on the ancient Asian game called “13” and combines poker with pai gow poker. The game is played with a traditional deck of 52 cards plus one Joker, which can be used as an Ace or as any card to complete a Straight, Flush, Straight Flush or Royal Flush. Seven cards are dealt to each player and the dealer, who arrange the cards into three hands- one card, two cards and four cards. The only rule for setting their hands is that the four-card hand must be higher than the two-card hand, and the two-card hand must be higher than the one-card hand. The dealer must set his or her hand per the specified House Way. Each of the players’ three hands will matchup against the dealer’s corresponding hand. A player must win 2 or more hands to win, or lose 2 or more hands to lose. When any of the player’s three hands is identical in rank to a dealer hand, this is a tie (copy hand). The house wins copy hands. The optional Fortune Bonus wager wins if a player’s hand contains a straight or better. If a player needs assistance setting their hand, the dealer will set the hand per the House Way (the way the dealer is required to set their hand).

Each player at the table is responsible for setting their own hand and no other person except the dealer may touch their cards. Each player is required to keep their cards over the table and in full view of the dealer at all times. Once a player has set their cards in the appropriate area on the layout, they cannot touch the cards again.

Winning wagers pay 1 to 1. There is no commission charged on winning wagers.
